

Privacy Statement

Applicable to the trade names Intunity and Maurice Spees

Version 1.0 · Effective from 19-08-2026 · Last amended 19-08-2026

Intunity respects your privacy and handles personal data with care. This Privacy Statement explains what personal data Intunity may collect, why it is used, how it is protected, how long it is retained, and what rights you have.

1 · Who is responsible for your personal data

Intunity is the sole proprietorship established in Lochem and registered with the Dutch Chamber of Commerce (Kamer van Koophandel) under number 51806088, also trading under the name Maurice Spees.

2 · What personal data may be collected

Depending on how you interact with Intunity, we may process the following categories of personal data:

- name and contact details, such as email address, telephone number and address;
- booking, registration and participation information;
- information contained in correspondence or enquiries;
- invoicing and payment-related information;
- information you voluntarily provide in connection with sessions, ceremonies, workshops, retreats, immersions or other services;
- information necessary to assess participation and safety where a service involves an intake or screening;
- photographs, audio recordings or video recordings where these are made with appropriate permission;
- technical information relating to website use, such as IP address, browser type, device information and information collected through cookies or similar technologies, where applicable.

Intunity only asks for information that is reasonably relevant to the service or purpose for which it is collected.

3 · Sensitive personal data

Some of the work offered by Intunity may involve information concerning health, medication, psychological wellbeing, substance use or other information that may constitute special categories of personal data under applicable data protection law.

Where such information is requested, it is collected only where there is an appropriate legal basis and where it is necessary for a clearly defined purpose, such as assessing whether participation in a ceremony or other experience can be conducted responsibly.

Intunity does not use sensitive personal data for advertising or unrelated commercial purposes.

Please do not provide medical or other highly sensitive information by ordinary email unless Intunity has specifically asked you to do so through an appropriate channel.

4 · Why we process personal data

Personal data may be processed for the following purposes:

- responding to enquiries and communicating with you;
 - processing registrations and bookings;
 - providing agreed sessions, ceremonies, workshops, retreats, immersions and other services;
 - conducting necessary intake or safety screening;
 - arranging payments, invoicing and administration;
 - maintaining appropriate records of agreements and transactions;
 - communicating practical information about an upcoming service;
 - handling questions, complaints and requests;
 - complying with legal, tax and accounting obligations;
 - protecting the safety, rights and property of Intunity and participants;
 - improving the website, services and user experience;
 - sending newsletters or promotional communications where you have provided consent or where another lawful basis permits this.

5 · Legal bases for processing

Depending on the circumstances, Intunity processes personal data on one or more of the following legal bases under the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR):

- performance of a contract or steps taken at your request before entering into a contract;
- compliance with a legal obligation;
- legitimate interests, where these interests are not overridden by your rights and freedoms;
- consent, where consent is required or chosen as the legal basis.

Where processing is based on consent, you may withdraw that consent at any time. Withdrawal does not affect the lawfulness of processing carried out before withdrawal.

6 · Sharing personal data with others

Intunity does not sell your personal data.

Personal data may be shared with service providers where this is necessary to operate the business or provide the service. These may include, depending on the service:

- payment providers;
- booking and scheduling platforms;
- website, hosting and IT providers;
- email and communication providers;
- accounting or administration providers;
- professional advisers where reasonably necessary;
- authorities or other parties where disclosure is required by law.

Where third parties process personal data on behalf of Intunity, Intunity seeks to use appropriate contractual and organisational safeguards.

Intunity does not share personal information about participation in personal or ceremonial work for publicity or commercial purposes without your permission, unless disclosure is legally required.

7 · International data transfers

Some service providers used by Intunity may process personal data outside the European Economic Area (EEA). Where this occurs, Intunity will take the measures required by applicable data protection law, which may include relying on an adequacy decision, appropriate contractual safeguards or another lawful transfer mechanism.

8 · How long we keep personal data

Personal data is retained only for as long as reasonably necessary for the purposes for which it was collected, unless a longer retention period is required by law.

Financial and accounting records are retained for the period required by applicable tax legislation.

Information relating to a particular service or agreement may be retained for as long as reasonably necessary for administration, legal obligations, dispute handling and protection of legitimate interests.

Where consent is withdrawn, Intunity will stop the relevant consent-based processing unless another lawful basis applies.

9 · Security

Intunity takes reasonable technical and organisational measures to protect personal data against loss, unauthorised access, misuse, alteration or disclosure.

No method of electronic storage or transmission can be guaranteed to be completely secure.

Intunity therefore cannot guarantee absolute security, but will take reasonable steps appropriate to the nature and sensitivity of the information.

10 · Cookies and website data

The Intunity website may use cookies and similar technologies.

Essential cookies may be used where necessary for the functioning and security of the website.

Non-essential cookies, such as analytics or marketing cookies, will be used only where the applicable legal requirements for consent or another lawful basis are met.

You can manage cookie preferences through the cookie settings or consent mechanism provided on the website, where available.

11 · Your rights

Subject to applicable law, you may have the right to:

- request access to the personal data Intunity holds about you;
- request correction of inaccurate or incomplete personal data;
- request deletion of personal data in circumstances where the law permits this;
- request restriction of processing;
- object to certain processing, including processing based on legitimate interests;
- request data portability where applicable;
- withdraw consent where processing is based on consent;
- lodge a complaint with the Dutch Data Protection Authority (Autoriteit Persoonsgegevens) or another competent supervisory authority.

To exercise a privacy right, contact info@intunity.co. Intunity may need to verify your identity before fulfilling a request.

12 · Children

Intunity's services are generally intended for adults. Intunity does not knowingly collect personal data from children for services that are not intended for them.

If you believe that personal data relating to a child has been provided to Intunity without an appropriate legal basis, please contact Intunity so that the matter can be reviewed.

13 · Confidentiality in ceremonial and personal work

Intunity recognises that participants may share deeply personal information during sessions, ceremonies, retreats and other experiences.

Personal information shared in these settings is treated confidentially and is not used for promotional purposes without permission.

Confidentiality may be limited where disclosure is required by law or where necessary to address a serious and immediate safety concern, to the extent permitted or required by law.

14 · Changes to this privacy statement

Intunity may update this Privacy Statement from time to time to reflect changes in services, technology or applicable law.

The latest version will be made available through the Intunity and/or Maurice Spees website.

Where required by law, significant changes will be communicated in an appropriate manner.
